MISCELLANEOUS.

MUSIC MAD.

The Woods are gone—it is over now, the opera and the uproar. One may think in prose, and talk without modulating his voice to a recitative; in a word, be sane without being unfashionable. Some there are still, however, in whose heads the clear notes of Mr and Mrs Wood, and the thorough bass of Mr Brough have not yet done reverberating. My friend, Theodore Chromatic, is one of the affected.

I lost sight of him, one day during the theatrical visit of the Woods, at ten o'clock, A. M., pursued all day, without overtaking, and at night caught a glimpse of him going into the Tremont Theatre. I followed, as soon as I could, by pressing in; purchased a ticket, and found the head of Theodore Chromatic framed in one of the appertures in the box doors, affording the audience inside, a living portrait with fixed eyes. I touched him on the shoulder—

"Is it cashed?"

"No, it's Brough."

Dollars and cents—there was an answer! The fact is, he and I are both of this world, and who in the world does not want money? We had made a note; he was to get it negotiated between ten and two; two P. M., in a witching time on 'change. I lost sight of him, as I said before, and looked in vain. At forty-five minutes past one, desperate—furious, I commenced shinning, and saved my credit at the bank by the skin of my conscience—my nominal credit, I mean. The tellers and two or three of the directors looked awful hard and inquiringly at the big drops of sweat on my temples in January. The fruits of that sweat who can guess?

To return to Theodore. I touched him again. He put back his arm, beating time as he deprecated interruption; but I persevered. "About that note?"

"It is certainly as low as E."

Clap—thump—hurra! Theodore Chromatic smashed a panel of the box-door.

The first act finished, I again pushed up to my friend. "I must say you're a charming—"

"Charming! delightful!" Taking a cue away he went—

"As I view now these scenes so charming,
With dear remembrance my heart warming,
Of days long vanished—O, my heart is filled with pain—"

"So are my boots," said I; "both my feet ache; I've run—"

"RUN! I've run and fought too, like a handcartman. Took me two hours to get a ticket, and now I'm number forty-three."

"But about business—"

"Business! she does it delightfully. Mrs Wood understands stage business—every thing—actress and songstress; there goes the act drop."

Theodore rigged his head in at the window again, and I fell back, determined to watch and catch the first lucid interval.

Such an interval did not occur that evening. I sat out the opera in the slips, made myself as philosophically content as I could; more than content, I was delighted, but not to insanity.

The next morning I was at my friend's store betimes. I had a check to make good at ten.

"Theodore, I should hate to be so crazy as you are. You forget your business—"

"O no—"

"And your debts—"

"O no—

'Still so gently o'er me stealing,
Memory will bring back the feeling,
Spite of all my griefs revealing,
That I owe them—that I owe them still.'"

"Such a medley as your head! Notes, business and musical, mixed—"

"Phoh! fudge!" And he assumed an attitude—

"'Ah! don't mingle one human feeling!'"

'Why, this is worse than—"

'Don't mention it!

'We will form a heaven of love;
We will form a he-a-e-a-e—'"

Here my friend got lost among the high notes. Somebody in the street bellowed "Fire!"

"Where is it?" said Theodore, running to the door.

"Why, you cried first," said the man of whom he asked.

"I'll be hanged if I did!"

The evening papers chronicled a false alarm.

* * * * * *

Dined with Theodore by invitation. As I stood at the door, after touching the bell, I heard a racket, a rolling and a tumbling down stairs. Something broke the glass I looked through, in my face. I opened the door and a heap of mortality at the foot of the flight assumed the likeness, and rose to the altitude, of my friend, Theodore Chromatic. I picked up a dish-cloth; Chromatic snatched it from my hand, and ran up stairs, singing,

"'To whom belonging?—to whom belonging?'"

"In the name of common sense, Theodore, what does this mean?"

"O, nothing; only I've been rehearsing."

"Rehearsing?"

"Yes; the kiss at the end of the first act of La Somnanbula. Mother B——'s cook played Amina to my Elvino, and the old lady was Brough."

"Rough, if I might judge."

"Good! I owe you one. Brough, rough, Count Rodolpho. She parted us."

"So I saw."

During dinner, the presence of some twenty ladies and gentlemen kept Theodore's music sotto voce. "Take heed, whisper low," he sang to me from Masaniello, as the landlady sailed into the room behind the last dish, rosy with ire and steam, and fluttering in a dinner dress hastily put on. She looked carving knives at him, as she took her place.

"'With hair loose streaming, and eyes bright beaming, O, then it comes upon our fears,'" sung the incurable, as a potato fell in his lap from a plate she thrust into his hand.

Dinner, and the discussion of its solids, kept him quieter than I had hoped; but all mouths started agape with astonishment, as he rose from the table and struck

"'If it's permitted, my sweet hostess, I would now retire,'" with a malicious emphasis on the sweet.

"You are certainly drunk!" said I.

"No, but I mean to be doubtfully," said he, as he closed and fastened his room door, and produced glasses and a bottle of wine. A quick, hasty footstep on the stairs, a tap on the door. No answer. She commenced forcing it.

"'It shakes now, it breaks now!
Ah, Heaven!'"

Away the latch flew.

"Mr Chromatic, I won't put up with such doings in my house, that I won't. You shall make an apology."

"'Ah! can you doubt me?'"

"Mr Chromatic, I won't be made a scandal of—I won't; I—"

"Now, don't be jealous, Mrs B——, because I kissed the cook—

"'Still I can kiss thee—but ah! thou art sadly withered!'"

"No I aint withered neither, you insulting puppy; but I'll turn you out of the house, I will! You don't go to bed no night till morning—"

"O yes, I was in last night at eleven."

"Well, you kept a racket and a noise in the chamber all night."

"'There are persons, who, while sleeping,
Still, like day, their vigils keeping,
Wandering, dreaming, speaking, smiling,
Though in sleep their sense beguiling—
Somnambulists they are named, it seems,'
From their waising while in their dreams.'"

"Withered!" muttered Mrs B——, with a hitch of her shoulders, and a peep in the glass.

"Yes," warbled Chromatic—

"'Yes, for thee time's sad power
Thy beauties have withered, sweet flower;'"

I dodged involuntarily as the widow approached us, fairly frantic. Hers was no acting. Chromatic seized a chair to defend himself.

"'Go! guilty traitress!'"

"I'm not guilty!" screamed the widow.

"Why, mother, you're perfect in your part!

'Now avoid me—now away!'

Glorious finale—first rehearsal

"'We disdain thee, and with reason!'"

"Better pay your board, then!"

"And increase you hoard, then! Original! Capital! Duetto, Impro—Improvis—give us the Italian!"

"Hear me!" shrieked the landlady.

"More of the author? why you certainly are perfect?" said Chromatic, in ecstacy.

"'Ah! pray hear her,
She will not, I'm sure, deceive you.'"

said I, laughing.

"You quoting, too? Well, I will hear her. What have you to say, mother?"

"Why," sobbed the landlady, "a-bu-busing, heh-eh, heh-eh—it is cruel!"

"More of the author!"

"Chromatic;" said I,

"'See there!
By thy treatment she will die—
Forbear!'"

"It is too bad, Mrs B——."

"Heh-eh, heh-eh!"

"Any apology I can make—"

"Heh-eh, heh-eh!"

"I will."

We managed to make her understand, and Chromatic was pardoned, on promise of future good behavior. All this, however, did not prevent him from singing in a cracked voice Amina's solo.

"'Ah! embrace me—'"

Mrs B—— gave him a demi-scowl.

"'While thus forgiving,
Each a pardon thus receiving—'"

"On conditions," recollect, Mr Chromatic," said the widow, as she left the room.

"'On the earth while we are living,
We will form a Hea—'"

"Take care, Theodore, you've created one alarm of fire to-day!"

"I am mute!".—Weld's Corrected Proofs.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—The subscriber having completed a purchase of the exclusive right of the new and useful improvement in the Cooking Stove called the Improved Premium or Conical, takes this method to caution all persons from infringing upon his right. The stove to which he alludes is probably best known by the name of the CONICAL Stove, and has his name on the front. This stove was introduced into market in its present shape in the Spring of 1835, and about 1500 to 2000 sold. They have generally given great satisfaction, and the subscriber has made such arrangements as will enable him to supply the market the coming season. And as he has been informed that there are persons in the vicinity of Boston, who have already commenced manufacturing them, and others are preparing to make the said stove, he deems it his duty to inform such persons, and the public generally, that prompt measures will be taken to prosecute all such infringements. He also intends having an agency in Boston, where the public can be supplied with said Conical Stove on liberal terms, at wholesale and retail.

BOSTON MORNING POST.

SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1836.

NOTICE.—The Democratic Republicans of Charlestown are requested to meet at the Eagle Hotel, on SUNDAY EVENING, March 20th, for the purpose of making preparations for the ensuing election.

By order of the Town Committee.

PHINEAS J. STONE, Chairman.

SOLOMON PARSONS, Sec'y.

Charlestown, March 16th, 1836.

STENOGRAPHIC GLIMPSES OF CONGRESS.

Washington, March 14, 1836.

Senate.—A new day has dawned upon the destinies of the country!—The dynasty of the ARISTOCRACY is finished!—their sceptre is broken—their glory departed—

Their dream is past; it has no further charge!

The generous confidence they have abused, the high trust they have betrayed, they are now forced to surrender back to the insulted and indignant majesty of the people. Vile faction! the Constitution you have suborned and violated, is once more restored to its allegiance. Public opinion, like an avalanche moved by a breath, a breath has hurled upon, and crushed you!—

Thus may poor fools
Believe false teachers! Though those that are betray'd
Do feel the treason sharply, yet the traitor
Stands in worse case of woe.

Little did the faction dream that this was to be the last day of their triumphant profligacy, when Thomas Ewing, the humble tool of Henry Clay, moved to call up the Lands' Bill for the distribution of bribery and corruption among the people. But soon

A change came o'er the spirit of their dream!

Mr Buchanan moved to go into Executive business.—Ewing came to the scratch again, urged on by his bottle-holder, Clay—saying that the Senator from New-Jersey and two from Maryland, were sick, and the Senate ought not therefore to go into Executive business.

Gen. Wall opposes him. Dr. Naudain rises, and uncorks his hartshorn to revive the drooping spirits of the faction, who all appeared to be pretty sick; when lo! in crawls the dying Mr Southard, to enact "Lord Chatham," and creeps to his seat, crouching at the feet of Clay like a whipt spaniel! Ewing braces up for another round, but the odds are against him.

Col. Benton took the floor, saying it was first necessary to pass the Appropriation Bills, before they undertook to distribute the surplus. Ewing having breathed, toes the mark again for the fourth and last time; but has only strength to demand the yeas and nays.

The Arch-Nullifier now comes to the rescue; he talks big and deep and grum and fast:—To bribe, or not to bribe, that's the question; and if we adjourn, saith he, without distributing the revenue, it is forever lost to the country! The appropriations are only a few hundred thousand;—shall we give up our millions?

Col. Benton, perceiving the debate was to be a battle against time, re-entered the lists, and took up the scull of Biddle's Mammoth, and "jowled it to the ground, as if it were Cain's jaw-bone that did the first murder;" and anon he knocked Calhoun's and Ewing's quiddits and quillits about the sconce with it, till their imploring looks seemed to cry, peccavi! Then taking his seat for the yeas and nays to be called, he appeared ruminating on the Mammoth scull like Hamlet,—"Hum! This might be in's time a great buyer of land, with his statutes, his recognances, his fines, his double vouchers, his recoveries: Is this the fine of his fines, the recovery of his recoveries, to have his fine pate full of fine dust?"

The Vice President announced the vote—the faction were "numbered, but found wanting!"—the administration outnumbered them. As the Chair announced the result, a breathless silence pervaded the chamber, it was still as the chamber of death. I glanced my eye on Henry Clay, the focus then of many eyes.

A moment o'er his face
The tablet of unutterable thoughts
Was traced,—and then it faded as it came,
And he was calm and quiet,

Like the felon of Sparta, with the fox gnawing out his vitals!

The Senate then closed their doors for Executive business, but passed upon no nominations, as I learn.

Mr Rives took his seat to-day; 24 administration Senators were present.

House.—The day was devoted to the prayers of petitions, &c.

REIS EFFENDI.

From Florida.—We find in the Charleston papers of the 11th, various letters relating to the present condition of affairs, and more especially to the battle of the 29th of February. The situation of Gen. Gaines, as represented in these letters, is by no means so alarming as it has been supposed by some. A letter from himself, written after the battle of the 29th, says that on the morning of the 29th, at 10 o'clock, the Indian force, believed to be about 1500 strong, attacked two sides of his encampment, and approached so near his lines, as to wound men on the opposite line, a distance of 200 yards. The attack lasted two hours, when the enemy was repulsed. Lt. Duncan is among the wounded, 10 in number, and one or two killed in the last attack. It seems probable that the panic on this subject has risen from nothing more alarming than a scanty supply of provisions, somewhat inconvenient indeed, but not so dreadful as to make even a retreat to Fort King necessary.

Highly Important and Gratifying from Washington.—The following paragraph from the Globe of Wednesday, will be read with interest by every friend of the country:—"We are gratified to announce the confirmation of the nominations of R. B. Taney as Chief Justice of the United States; P. P. Barbour as Circuit and Associate Judge, and Amos Kendall as Postmaster General. The vote in favour of Mr Taney was 29; in favour of Mr Barbour, 30; for Mr Kendall, 25. There were some absentees, who, we understand, would have voted for the nominations. The injunction of secrecy was taken off, and we will, therefore, be enabled to give the vote from the journals to-morrow."

A Singular Incident.—A gentleman who had lost two or three quarts of blood, from having had a large molar tooth extracted, recently called on Mr Middleton, a Dentist in Philadelphia; while the latter was placing an astringent to the part, and covering it with a piece of cork, so as to embrace the bleeding surface, the man was attacked with a fit, and severely injured with his teeth, two of Mr Middleton's fingers. The person had to be choked by his friend, who came with him, before his jaws could be opened.

Coffee.—There was imported into Boston from foreign countries, in the year 1834, 15,988,292, lbs of Coffee, and in the year 1835, 13,672,792 lbs.

For the Boston Morning Post.

The Banks.—I regret to find that severe measures against four of our banks are recommended by the investigating committee. These measures appear to me to be not only unnecessary and impolitic, but most palpably invidious and unjust. A few only of the banks in the Commonwealth have undergone any examination; and it is beyond question, that many country banks have conducted their business more in the extreme of the principles which have excited the censure of the committee, than those which are specially selected for legislative vengeance. Let justice, equal and impartial justice, be done. I think that the banks have, in most of the exceptionable cases, acted from absolute necessity, and from a wish to do good and to afford relief. The examinations and expositions which have already taken place, with the comments of the public and the censures of the committee contained in their report, are amply sufficient to prevent improper action in future, and to keep the banks strictly within the limits of actual law. If the laws are imperfect or obscure, or loosely expressed, let them be amended. It would be still better to repeal some of them.

The consequences attendant on repealing a bank charter are worthy of consideration by the legislature. There are in every bank in Boston a considerable number of officers and clerks, to whom no blame can attach. These are entirely dependant on their situations and salaries for support. Most of them have families and children. Some have become advanced in years in these situations, entirely without property. All have relinquished other employments to which they would now be unfitted to return, or it would require years to become again successfully established in them. To throw them out of employment would produce the most serious distress. Nothing but the utmost necessity would justify legislative measures, which should produce this result.

Another consideration presents itself. Banking operations can easily and safely be carried on, without a charter, under a contract of copartnership. The stockholders or partners would not be subjected to greater responsibilities than they are by the present laws, and their profits would be relieved from the bank tax of one per cent a year on the capital. They would only be deprived of the privilege of issuing their own bills,—a thing of very little importance;—for the use of the bills of some other bank might be obtained for that purpose at a trifling expense. Should the charters spoken of be repealed, there is no doubt that the institutions would be continued as heretofore, without charters. The State would lose the tax, banking would be introduced under new principles liable to be abused, charters would no longer be desired, and great evils might be the consequence. For my own part, it has been long my opinion, after considerable knowledge and experience in banking, that stock in a private copartnership bank would be preferable to that under a charter; and I would now actually subscribe for stock sooner in the former case than in the latter. I do not own a single share in either of the proscribed banks, or in any other with regard to which there is any apprehension from legislative interference. My motives in making these remarks are entirely disinterested, and the opinions expressed, whether right or wrong, are unprejudiced and sincere.

A SPECTATOR.

NINETY NINTH ANNIVERSARY.

The Charitable Irish Society celebrated the festival of St Patrick, the patron Saint of Ireland, at Concert Hall on Thursday last—the Society met at 12 o'clock, M. when the election of the following officers for the ensuing year, took place:—

JAMES BOYD, President.
DANIEL O. CALLAHAN, Vice President.
Rev. P. BYRNE, Treasurer.
WILLIAM P. McKAY, Keeper of the Silver Key.
DENNIS TEMMONY, Secretary.

The business of the Society being completed, they sat down to a sumptuous dinner, served up in Gen. Eaton's best style, together with a number of invited guests. The performance of pieces of music added very much to the hilarity of the evening: they retired at an early hour, and every thing passed of with decorum and good order.

The Volunteer Toasts shall be given next week.

REGULAR TOASTS.

1. The Day.—Religion reveres it—Patriotism honors it, and the Irish Exile meets it with a Cead Mille a Failthegh.
2. The United States.—Her happy Constitution invited us, her law gives us protection; May her Citizens ever act towards us as those laws dictate, and in the hour of trial we shall not be found ungrateful.
3. Ireland.—Although seven Centuries of oppression have darkened her history, yet the torch of liberty, though obscured, has never been extinguished—in the hands of O'Connell it shines with redoubled lustre. May it continue to blaze until every City, Village, and hamlet, shall reflect its beneficent rays
4. The President of the United States.—His life, devoted to his country's welfare, shall adorn one of the brightest pages in her history—his honest republican policy has proved an overmatch for diplomatic finesse, and stock-jobbing manœuvres—justly may we feel proud that his Father's land was Erin.
5. The City of Boston, the Athens of America.—Foremost in the contest for civil and religious freedom, may her intellectual march never be retarded by intolerance or fanaticism, nor her strong arm intimidated by incendiaries.
6. The Army of the United States.—Comparatively few in number, but the battle of New Orleans may teach the world that numbers do not always ensure victory.
7. The Navy of the United States.—European Despots may threaten to annihilate it, but they should recollect that the self-styled Queen of the Ocean found by experience that to threaten was easy, to perform impossible, for it was manned by freemen.
8. Repeal of the legislative Union of Great Britain and Ireland.—The Irish Patriots may believe agitation inexpedient, but past experience demonstrates that by it alone can Ireland cease to be a province and become once more a nation.
9. The unpurchased Patriot the admired of every lover of freedom, and the well-beloved of every honest Irishman—DANIEL O'CONNELL.
10. The political reformers of England and Scotland who have declared that Ireland shall have justice and as an earnest of their promise, have sent a Mulgrave to govern her—a man who scorns to do wrong to please a faction; nor shall tory lords deter him from doing right.
11. The bond of Our Society.—The link which unites Heaven with Earth, and Man with Man, the Virtue without which Religion is vain Charity.
12. A perfect disunion of Church and State.—Their adulterous connection has tarnished the fair fame of the one and enfeebled the other—their Offspring has been tyranny, cruelty, and bloodshed, witness Rathcormac.
13. Our Comforters in adversity, our best physicians in sickness, and whose endearing smiles give a zest to all our pleasures—The LADIES.

The expiration of the Charter of the U. S. Bank, was celebrated at Cincinnati, in grand style, on the fourth of March. Messrs Van Buren and Johnson were among the invited guests, and we have before us their letters to the Committee of Arrangements. They contain sentiments worthy of the democratic candidates for the two highest offices within the gift of the American people. In speaking of the new bank, Mr Van Buren recommends that "its consequences be left to the consideration and disposition of a virtuous and justly offended public," and says it "is a matter of the highest consideration that the advances of this presumptious institution upon the federal government, at least, have been successfully arrested." We shall endeavor to publish the letters hereafter.

POLICE COURT.

Hugh McIlhenny was charged with stealing 50 lbs. of old sheet lead, belonging to E. Cummings, recently ripped from the roof an old building. He pleaded not guilty, but the offence was fastened upon him by two cliaching witnesses—the man from whom he stole it, and the man to whom he sold it. He had been to work a day or two previous for Mr Cummings, and upon the strength of that connection, he took the liberty, after he was discharged, to call upon Mrs C., and tell her that her husband had sent him for the lead, which she of course handed out. Judging from the condition of his nether habiliments, he might have stolen the lead to make a pair of pants out of it, as it looked like a roll of dirty sail cloth.

Magistrate—What have you to say, prisoner?

Prisoner—Nothing it is I have to say, only I nivver tuck the lid.

Mag—What is the use of your saying that, after you have heard what the witnesses have said?

Pris.—The witnesses may say what they have a mind to, and much good may it do thim nivver a bit—and if the other man says I soult him the arthicle, it's little I'd want to be doing wid him again, for I nivver carried him a hair of lid in all my life.

Mag.—It will do no good for you to contradict the witness in that way.

Pris.—I don't care, I nivver saw the lid.

Mag.—Witness was the prisoner in liquor when he sold you the lead?

Wit.—Yes.

Mag.—Then I suppose that he does not recollect that he did take it. Prisoner, I'm glad that I discovered this fact, though it is no legal excuse; for I should be very sorry to think you would lie about such a small matter.

Pris.—No indade, no man ivver catched me in a lie, or anny other degree of falsehood, or roguery, whatsomever.

At this stage of the dialogue, the prisoner's wife made her appearance, wearing a most wish't—yea, most half-washed—countenance, for her big fast falling tears had ploughed for themselves two broad canals down her cheeks, so deep, as nearly to reach the skin. She walked up to the bar, and begged for a merciful sentence, pleading in support of her prayer an infant child, six months old.

Mag.—Out of regard to your situation, good woman, we will impose the smallest fine possible,—$2.00, and costs.

Pris.—Who shall I pay it to? (cramming his hand into his pocket, and hitching round, with the air of a millionaire; but his pocket dishonored the draft.)

Mag.—If the fine be paid within 10 days, good woman, your husband will not go to the house ofcorrection.

Wife—O blessings on your honor for the word.

Pris.—You hould your tongue, woman—what do you know about it.

Wife—How much will it be; I'll try to raise it, yer honor, for we can't get along widout him.

Clerk—The whole sum is $5.81 cts.

This sum was a little louder than the poor woman was prepared for, and when the neat little memorandum, written in a fair clerkly hand, was presented to her, it gave her an awful twinge of the nervous system, and her face puckered up as if she had drank a dose of salts; but as soon as she got over her sick turn, she scrabbled round among her friends, collected the cash, and set her churlish husband at liberty.

Congress.—In the Senate on Tuesday, 15th inst., Mr Ewing, of Ohio, moved to take up the bill to appropriate for a limited time the proceeds of sales of the public lands, which was agreed to. The bill was then taken up for its third reading, and supported by Mr Ewing until he was exhausted, when Mr Naudain moved an adjournment which was negatived. The motion was renewed by Mr Magnum. Mr Benton said he would sit till midnight rather than adjourn. The motion was then negatived. Some farther discussions took place, after which on motion of Benton, the Senate went into Executive business.

In the House, a resolution was adopted, making 11 A M. the daily hour to which the House shall stand adjourned hereafter. An effort was made to take up the North Carolina election, but without success. The navy appropriation bill was taken up and discussed until the hour of adjournment, without any action thereon.

☞The poor old Loco Foco snake shakes its rattles a little once in a while, but it can do no harm—the head of the serpent is bruised. The cause of Democracy is going ahead and its true friends cannot be diverted from the great object of redeeming the State, and giving its vote for VAN BUREN and JOHNSON, by the growls of the malignant and selfish, who are as incapable of imbibing patriotic feelings as they are of performing honest actions.

☞Upon our First Page will be found a very appropriate satire, entitled "MUSIC MAD," extracted from Mr Weld's pleasant volume of "CORRECTED PROOFS." Boston men and women never behaved so much like little boys and girls as they have since the Woods have been here.

Summary of Foreign Intelligence.—N. Y. Star.

There have been found in eighteen of the principal Abbyes in Portugal, no less than 149,800 printed books as well as several thousand rare manuscripts.

The vines of France alone, are said to occupy 4,265,000 English acres, producing 250 gallons an acre, valued at 22½ millions sterling.

In the splendid drama of the Jewess as performed at London, there are as many as 300 lanterns introduced upon the stage.

Considerable amusement has been produced at Paris by an altercation between two locksmiths, challenging and placarding each other as to the superior character of their respective locks. The dispute ended in an action of defamation.

The plays of Shakspeare are said to be enacted at Berlin with more scrupulous fidelity to the text of the author than in London, where, it is true, many of them have been sadly mangled by conceited commentators. At Berlin they prefer the originals. Schlegel, their critic, has shown how profoundly the great poet is understood in Germany.

M. Eicthal, a banker at Munich, is about to construct a rail-road from Nuremburg to Augsburg.

Otho, the young King of Greece, it is said has become home sick, amidst the splendid monuments of his capital, and desires to return again to the unadorned and humble country of his birth, Bavaria.

The Schah of Persia, has subjugated all the pretenders to the throne of his mighty empire but two.

M. de Greisswald, who lately became bankrupt at Hamburg, was the owner of 68 vessels.

The Egyptian Goverment has recalled the young men whom it has some years had at Paris receiving their education. They amounted to some 20 or 30, and dressed in their native costume in the streets—their complexion resembling that of light mulattoes, and their features Arabic or Turkish. They were very apt scholars. Egypt is jealous of the learning of France towards Turkey.

Pop Emmons is dramatising, at Washington, his late quarrel with his Landlord. The identical pistol with which the orator was fired at, will be produced, and the principal incident will be the orator's flight along the Avenue arrayed in his shirt, with his necessary garment in his hand. The same gentleman has also altered the play of Tecumseh from three to five acts, introducing into it several passages from the well known and never read Epic poem of the Fredoniad.—N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

The common council of Baltimore have authorized and directed the mayor to subscribe, in behalf of the city, for three millions of the stock of the Baltimore and Ohio rail-road company.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Friday, March 18.—In the Senate, an additional Report of the Committee on the Bank Investigation, declaring that further proceedings ought to be had against the New-England, City, State, and People's Banks, was adopted in concurrence, and thereupon it was ordered, in concurrence, that the special joint committee appointed to investigate the doings of any or all of the Banks in this Commonwealth, be instructed to summon before them, at such time and place as they may designate, the President, Directors, and Company of the New-England, City, State, and People's Banks, respectively to shew cause, if any there be, why their respective charters should not be declared forfeit, and void, and to proceed against each of them, according to the provision of the 17th section of the act of 1829.

On motion of Mr Fairbanks, ordered that the committee on the Bank Investigation, be enlarged by the addition of three on the part of the Senate, and five on the part of the House, and Messrs. Fairbanks, H. Williams, and Hastings were appointed as the part of the Senate.

The Resolve granting county taxes came back from the House with an amendment, which was adopted in concurrence.

In the House, a large number of private bills, chiefly for incorporations, were acted on, and the Bill for abolishing capital punishments was takon up and further debated, but no question taken thereon.

Afternoon.—The Committee on the petition of Francis Bowman and others, of Cambridge, for a new bridge over Charles River, having reported that it was expedient to refer the subject to the next Legislature, it was moved by Mr Green, of West Cambridge, that the report should be re-committed, with instructions to report a bill in accordance with the prayer of the petitioners.

This motion was supported by Messrs. Green, Rantoul, Whittemore, Thompson, and Buckingham; and the question being taken, it was decided in the affirmative—Ayes 315 to Nays 26.

The order passed in the Senate in the forenoon, for adding three of the Senate and five of the House, to the Bank Investigating Committee, came down for concurrence.

Messrs. Rantoul, Ashmun, Winthrop, and Williams opposed the order, on the ground, that if adopted, it would be virtually an insult, or a vote of censure on the present Committee.

Mr Williams said it was the last dying gasp of those originally opposed to the investigation to thwart the object for which it was instituted—it was the last dying effort of the Banks to evade the operations of the government by hitching on to the present Committee a new set of individuals, who have not had the same opportunity to be informed of the facts necessary to be known in order to enable them to be able to decide understandingly upon the conduct of the banks. In the course of his remarks, Mr Williams took occasion to observe that he did not consider the State Bank to be the greatest offender, although by its clumsy roguery it appeared to greater disadvantage than those which had been more adroit in their roguery.

Not a single member spoke in favor of concurring with the Senate, and only one voted for it.

Shipwreck and Loss of Lives.—Indian Butcheries. The following account of a series of distressing occurences is from the Jackson (East Feliciana) Republican, of the 26th ult. The Mr Attree spoken of, is a gentleman who was for a considerable time connected with the New York press:—

"The schooner Ellen, from Texas, went all to pieces off the Cote Blanche, in the storm of last Wednesday; all perished except four. What renders this circumstance the more distressing is, that the Ellen had on board some noble spirited young officers belonging to the Texian army, who were on their way from the Balize to Mobile and New York, to raise recruits; when they heard of the dreadful situation of the families near Cape Sable, in Florida, they immediately sailed for that course, and after a very severe fight with a party of Indians, they gallantly rescued the wife and two daughters of Mr Perscot from destruction, after their father had been brutally butchered; Mrs P. died the day after they left the coast of Floridu.

When the vessel struck, the main mast went by the board, sweeping away with it the captain and two seamen; two other seamen were drowned in the jolly boat, which was swamped under the vessel's stern; the remaining seamen, with two officers, Mr Vaughan, F. Harris, of Fredonia, and William H. Attree, of New York, (being the only survivors after the engagement with the Indians) then constructed a raft, upon which they placed the young ladies, and committed themselves to the waves; not far from the shore, a heavy sea breaking over them, they were all swept from the raft; Capt. Harris seized the eldest daughter, but both unfortunately sunk to rise no more, owing to the weak state in which Capt. H.'s wound had left him; Mr A., who was also wounded in several places, dived and caught the youngest daughter after she had sunk, and providentially reached the shore in safety with her; the seamen also reached the shore on a spar. Miss Perscott still remains very ill: Mr Attree is fast recovering.

Mad Ox.—An ox, belonging to Mr Joseph Newbury, of Paterson, Putnam county, which had been bitten by a dog about three weeks previously, was on the 2d instant attacked by the most decided symptoms of hydrophobia, which increased and became a most confirmed case of that dreadful malady. He was kept till the following Friday, during which time he was frightfully frantic, bellowing most pitifully, frothing at his mouth, tossing his head and biting at every thing that came in his way, and when exhausted, sinking down apparently in the agonies of death.

Dr Fisher, in the last number of the Medical and Surgical Journal, recommends to mothers and nurses, when a child is seized with that dangerous disease, the croup, to apply immediately and perseveringly, until medical aid can be obtained, to the throat and upper part of the chest, sponges or napkins dipt in water as hot as can be borne, and wrung out so that the water may not ooze from them. The remedy was first suggested by a German physician, and has been practised with decided and uniform success.

On Saturday evening a few minutes after ten o'clock, the watchman of the district found, on the benches of the market, in Second above Poplar street, two new born children, evidently twins—they were dead, but physicians gave it as their opinion, that they were alive when exposed. They were wrapped in a piece of a bed cover—but nothing transpired to lead to a detection of the wretch who committed the crime.—N. Y. Gaz.

The Red River Raft.—The whole of this encumbrance to the navigation of one of the finest rivers through one of the most fertile portions of our country, will, it is thought by Capt. Shrieve's zealous exertions with his two steamboats, be removed by April 1st.

Mr Armand has given notice in the Legislature of Louisiana, that he would shortly introduce a bill to incorporate the company of "Fox Hunters of Baton Rouge with banking privileges."

Mutiny.—The crew of the John Jay, charged with mutiny or attempting to make a revolt at sea, has been found guilty in the U. S. District Court.—N. Y. Star.

☞The alarm of fire about 9 o'clock last evening, was from a Last Factory on Front street—damage trifling.

In Roxbury, Mrs Hannah, wife of Charles Parker, 46

In this city, Susan R. Blasland, child of the late Wm Blasland.

In Dorchester, on the 14th inst. John D. Howard, Esq. 77.

To the Editor of the Boston Morning Post.

SIR—I send you the original letter, I have this instant received from Salem, relative to a member of one of the most respectable families in that place, to whom every thing was "blackness and darkness" for three years, though under the care of the most celebrated Oculists that this country, at that time could produce: since which, the lady herself, says that "there is a favorable change" and that she "should be very happy" if convenient, "to pay me more, even than I demanded," and thought it very impertinent that any should interfere in her affairs.

The whole of my letters, prove the veracity of Dr Howe; and the shameful means by his Agents such as Hart, the soup merchant, &c. to whom he has recourse to obtain information as to the terms upon which I receive those patients who pay—as if it concerned him, whether they paid me 5 or 50 guineas; which to say the least proves him to be a busy-body, meddling with other men's matters—a character which every person despises.

The fact is, the fellow alluded to in the above-mentioned letter, who is an Italian Music Master attached to the Institution for the Blind, it appears was employed by his noble Patron, to go to Salem, and pretend that he was employed by an afflicted lady who wished to consult Dr Williams;—desired to know how much was paid and if any declaration was given. Yes, replied the Lady (whom Dr Howe pretended, to be an "old domestic") and who bye the bye, is as elegant a young woman of 41, as ever the mother, or even the Grandmother of the refined Dr was at that age, tho' blessed with the fine air of a certain part of the common!

I have the honor to be, Sir, Yours &c,

JOHN WILLIAMS, Oculist.

☞Other documents from Mr Williams will appear on Monday.

epistm20 m3

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

THE undersigned, proprietors of India wharf, of Foster's wharf, and other estates on the South Channel, represent to your honorable body, that the estates above mentioned being situated on the most easterly boundary of the City of Boston, and more particularly exposed to the storms from the sea, than any others, ask permission to obtain for themselves, and at their own cost, that protection to their estates from the ravages of the waves, which is commonly provided for at the general expense of the Government.

Immediately opposite their estates, and east of the South Channel, there is an extent of flats, almost bare at low tide. On these flats your petitioners propose (to) build Island wharves, immediately opposite their wharves, and to the same extent, only, as breakwaters, and the object of their petition is to obtain permission to that effect.

They are aware that a commission appointed by the last General Court, to report on the general regulations of the harbor is in progress; but they understood that this Report will not be presented at the present session; they are, however, so confident, that the scientific commissioners who have this subject commited to them, will if consulted, report specially in favor of so important an improvement to our Harbor, interesting to the whole state, and in fact to the whole Maritime interest of the Union.

To convince your Honorable body, that this (is) not one of those private and selfish speculations, which are too often obtruded upon Legislatures, your petitioners would be well satisfied, if the Government, or that of the Union, would take upon itself this work of public utility, and keep to itself all the incidental advantages which may be derived therefrom.

The project is moreover one, long since in contemplation, and nearly twenty years ago, obtained the approval of the Port Wardens, the Pilots, and numerous mariners and shipowners; as may be seen by recurring to the Legislative records, whose petitions to the same ends will be found.

FINE TEETH AND GUMS!

CURE FOR THE TOOTH ACHE!!

ROWLAND'S ALSANA EXTRACT, for immediately relieving the most violent Tooth Ache, and preserving, strengthening and beautifying the Teeth and Gums. Also, for spasmodic affections. This admirable specific is recommended by the first physicians, and its properties are invaluable. In the anguish of excruciating pain, it affords instantaneous mitigation! It creates, cleanses, and preserves! renovating the Teeth with pristine beauty; eradicating from the mouth unpleasant taste and injurious secretion, and repelling the approach of decay! It totally exterminates the scurvy, restores the gums to the fulness of health, and gives them an additional firmness of adhesion, by which means the teeth are powerfully rooted to their sockets. It is besides perfectly innoxious, and an excellent stomachic in all cases of flatulency and depression of spirits; finally, it cleanses Artificial Teeth, and prevents their changing color. But the necessity of resorting to artificial Teeth, may be entirely precluded by the Alsana Extract, which, if constantly used, will preserve the Teeth and Gums sound, beautiful and free from pain, to the latest period of existence. By the decay of the teeth mastication is impeded, and female beauty loses an attractive ornament. To preserve the one, and retain unimpaired the powers of the other, are "consummations devoutly to be wished," and by no existing specific in the universe can these most desirable attainments be more readily insured than by the use of Rowland's Alsana Extract.

Sold by A. ROWLAND & SON, Hatton Garden, London, and by their appointment, by their Agent, at the Music Saloon, 36 Cornhill, formerly Market street, by the dozen or single bottle.

To Messrs. Rowland & Son.

Gentlemen—Please to send me one 10s. 6d. bottle of your Alsana Extract.

I hope I am very thankful to God, for enabling you to discover your excellent Alsana Extract; I have used it but a few times, and it has cured a violent pain in my Teeth, which I have been subject to for a length of time; also have been troubled for some months with great pain in my stomach, arising from wind, that I really thought it would have ended my life, but reading your little Pamphlet on Teeth, I took twenty drops of the Alsana Extract on a bit of lump sugar and soon found ease, and have taken it twice since—it is now some days, and have had no return of pain.

If you think proper, you are at liberty to publish this
Yours respectfully, C. FENN.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

LETTERS PATENT have been granted to Charles Lane for important improvements in the construction of GRATES for BURNING ANTHRACITE COAL and WOOD, in open fire places, on a new principle. By the improvements in the LANE GRATE, combustion being supported by heated air, the most stubborn anthracite coal can be so freely ignited that the SURFACE of the fire presents the same glowing heat that is exhibited by the interior. In this Grate MOISTURE and pure, warm air, those important desiderata, are obtained, whereby those old objections, the destruction of furniture by shrinking, injury to house plants, and the difficulty experienced by some persons in breathing a dry atmosphere, heated by anthracite coal, are completely removed. This Grate, for cleanliness, surpasses any fire-place, grate, or stove for burning any kind of fuel, and being got up in an elegant style, will supersede those of other descriptions now in use.

The undersigned having purchased the PATENT RIGHT for the United States, have made extensive preparations for the manufacture of the LANE PATENT GRATE, and will receive orders at 22 School street, for the same, and at 62 Congress street, (up stairs,) where the public are invited to call and see one in operation.

The undersigned are now manufacturing a complete assortment of LANE'S PATENT GRATES, from 12 to 20 inch fire, suitable for Parlors Chambers, Basements, and Kitchens. For INSURANCE OFFICES and BANKING ROOMS, it will be found the most pleasant, as it is the most economical Grate that can be used, the prices varying from $10 to $50

☞ N. B.—Every infringement of the Patent right will be prosecuted to the extent of the law: and PURCHASERS are reminded that they are liable for damages for purchasing the LANE PATENT GRATE of any INFRINGER of the Patent Right, and will be dealt with accordingly.

ADAMS'S PATENT

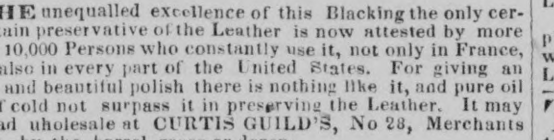

THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swelled Beam Windlass Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)

Orders thankfully received, and promptly attended to

CHARLES ADAMS, Patentee,
422 Washington st. a few doors south of Washington Bank.

C. A. has added a steam power to his manufactory which will enable him to give a full supply at a cheaper rate than hertofore.

THOMSONIAN BOTANIC INFIRMARY, No 554, Washington-street, BOSTON, Opposite the Worcester Rail Road Ticket Office.——The subscriber would inform his friends and the public, that he has taken that large and spacious Infirmary above named, and formerly occupied by Dr Brown and himself—that he has fitted it up in a style not surpassed by any other in the State for convenience and comfort: the rooms are large and airy, and command a fine prospect of the Worcester and Providence Rail Roads and the surrounding country on the West—Boston Harbor, its islands, shipping, light houses, &c. on the East, with the most pure air of any part of the city. The subscriber is also determined that nothing shall be wanting through every department of his Infirmary as to neatness and regularity, good order, the best of nursing and attention, to make every one who favors him with their patronage happy and contented. He has also a valuable library of the best selected books for the instruction and amusement of his patients He has also in readiness clean changes of linen for all patients who come to take single courses of medicine, and India Rubber coverings for the mattrasses and beds he always uses to prevent contagion. His steam boxes have windows with curtains, so that patients who are feeble can at any time put out their heads and breathe fresh air. The boilers are so constructed that he can at any moment graduate the steam to suit their wish or ability to bear, so that there is not the least danger to the most feeble constitution, not even for an infant of a month old. The shower of two quarts of cold water is delicious, though we never insist on it, as it is always a matter of choice with the patients, and a person who has once taken it will never after be denied, but will frequently call for more. The said subscriber has owned Dr Samuel Thomson's family right nearly three years, has given strict attention to its precepts, and for the five last months has administered pure Thomsonian medicine to over two hundred persons, many of whom suffered under the most desperate complaints, and had been given over to die by the regular physicians—and such has been his success, that out of the whole number every individual except two persons have been relieved, and more than three fourths cured who have left his Infirmary, one only having died at the Infirmary. He will still continue to administer Thomsonian Medicines in their purity at his Infirmary, assisted by Dr Darling in all difficult cases, who has been a regular Practitioner of the Thomsonian System for more than fourteen years in this city. Mrs. Badger will attend to the Ladies department at all times—she having been an experienced nurse over eighteen years, a part of which time she was nurse in the Massachusetts General Hospital, since in private families, and for the two last years a strict Thomsonian nurse. The subscriber would respectively invite the afflicted of all descriptions to call and examine for themselves, and if they should see fit to put themselves under his care, let their disease be what it may, if timely application be made, he will ensure a speedy relief.

N B. For sale at the above establishment, a general assortment of pure Thomsonian Medicines, done up with directions for use, at wholesale and retail.
